Fund Information as at 30 April 2020

Smaller companies portfolio

Fund managers' comments

- The Acorn smaller companies portfolio recorded a total return of +7.8% in April, compared to the benchmark Numis Smaller Companies (ex. IT) Index, which delivered a total return of +11.5% over the same period.
- Equity markets rebounded strongly in April following the severe market sell-off in March. Markets responded positively to the unprecedented stimulus measures announced by the Government and the Bank of England, which are designed to provide support to the economy during the lockdown. Furthermore, data derived from tracking the spread of COVID-19 started to show signs of improvement, as the rate of new daily infection started to fall.
- Many of the companies held in the portfolio registered positive total returns during the month. The largest contributors were: Numis, Epwin and Clipper which, in aggregate, added approximately 2.5% to overall performance. The primary detractors were STV Group and Secure Trust Bank, costing the portfolio 0.6% and 0.4% respectively in performance terms.
- Holdings in RPS, Signature Aviation, Tyman and NCC Group were exited in full. No new positions were initiated.

Income portfolio

Fund managers' comments

- Global central banks and governments have staged a remarkable recovery from their lows in March, following an unprecedented combination of large monetary and fiscal stimulus from global central banks.
- On a relative basis, corporate bonds have received the most explicit policy support and high quality investment grade companies should prove to be a more stable and reliable source of income as ultra-low rates persist.
- We remain cautious, as valuations seem overly optimistic in many areas of financial markets and a growing disconnect from worsening economic fundamentals could create further volatility.
- During the month the positions in investment companies exposed to alternative asset classes performed strongly, as discounts to NAVs narrowed, partially recovering following March's indiscriminate sell off.
- The position in Supermarket REIT was briefly closed as the share price revisited an all-time high. However, later in the month a position was reopened by taking part in a share issuance at a more attractive level.

NAV ¹	302.7p
Discount	-7.5%
Gearing ³	69.2%
ZDP shares
Repayment date	28/02/2022
Share price ¹	148.0p

Discount	-5.1%
Redemption value	167.2p
Gross Redemption Yield ²	6.9%
Hurdle rate ²	-55.2%
Cover ²	2.1x

The ordinary shares are geared by the ZDP shares which have a fixed entitlement to capital and rank ahead of the ordinary shares for repayment on any winding up of the Company. The current gearing level is shown in the table above.

The effect of gearing is that the NAV of the ordinary shares is expected to rise faster than the increase in the gross assets of the Company in a rising market but fall faster than the decline in gross assets in a falling market. This increases the risks associated with investing in the ordinary shares but enhances the potential return. As the ZDPs have no entitlement to a dividend, the ordinary shares will have potential for a higher dividend than would be the case if the Company was ungeared.

The ZDPs can be considered as a more defensive and lower risk investment than the ordinary shares but their potential return is limited by their fixed capital entitlement on the repayment date. The potential return, if held to redemption, is shown by the Gross Redemption Yield. The cover and hurdle rate are shown to enable the risk characteristics of these shares to be assessed.

Announcements

28 April 2019

The company declared a second interim dividend for the year ending 31 December 2020 of 5.75p per Ordinary Share, to be paid on 29 June 2020.

29 April 2019

Acorn Income Fund released its Annual Financial Report for the year ending 31 December 2019.

Non complex investments

The Directors of the Acorn Income Fund consider that both the ordinary shares and the ZDPs are non-complex investments for the purpose of the MiFID II regulations. The Directors took legal advice in reaching this conclusion and a copy of that advice can be made available to prospective investors on request.

Statement regarding non mainstream investment products

The Company currently conducts its affairs so that both the Ordinary shares and Zero Dividend Preference shares issued by the Company can be recommended by IFAs to retail investors in accordance with the FCA's rules in relation to non-mainstream investment products and intends to continue to do so for the foreseeable future. Acorn Income Fund's shares fall outside the regulations which apply to non-mainstream investment products because Acorn Income Fund invests substantially in shares, debentures or government and public securities and also because Acorn Income Fund would qualify for approval as an investment trust if it was resident in the United Kingdom.

Costs and charges

Ongoing charges figure*	1.79%
Of which annual management charge	0.70%
Transaction costs	0.21%

*The ongoing charges figure (OCF) is not the same as the ongoing costs figure set out in the Company's key information document. The key differences are that gearing costs and portfolio transaction costs are not included in the OCF. In addition costs are calculated on slightly different bases. The OCF figure set out above mirrors that in the Reports and Accounts and is based on costs incurred in the year which are likely to recur in the foreseeable future. The ongoing costs figures in the key information document provide investors with the impact costs have had on returns averaged over the five year recommended holding period.

The impact of the costs of the Company buying and selling underlying investments, based on the methodology used in the key information document.

For more information about the impact of costs and charges on your investment, please read the Key Information Document.

Definitions

Cover: The ratio by which the shareholders' redemption value is currently covered by those assets of the Company available at wind-up.

Hedge: An investment which aims to reduce the risk of adverse price movements in an asset or group of assets. Normally, a hedge consists of taking an offsetting position in a related security, such as a futures contract.

Hurdle rate: This shows the compound annualised rate of growth or decline in total assets required to return the pre-determined redemption price or, for shares without a pre-determined redemption price, to repay the current share price.

Investment risks

Reference to any particular stock does not constitute a recommendation to buy or sell the stock.

The value of investments may fluctuate which will cause fund prices to fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the original amount invested.

The performance of information presented in this document relates to the past. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns.

Future forecasts are not reliable indicators of future returns.

General risks

All types of investment carry a degree of risk and it is important that you understand and are comfortable with the level of risk to which your capital could be exposed. We recommend that you consult with a financial adviser if unsure in any way.

Inflation could erode the relative value of your investment.

There is a risk that financial markets will fall, affecting the value of your investment.

There is no guarantee that the investment objective will be achieved.

Past performance is not a guide to future returns. The price of shares and any income from them can go down as well as up and there is the possibility of a loss to your original investment.

The levels of taxation and of relief from taxation will depend upon individual circumstances.

There may be a variation in the performance between investments with similar objectives due to the different assets selected.

Performance will be affected by the fund managers' investment decisions.

Other investment risks

This investment trust may invest directly into, or be exposed to via its underlying investments, a variety of assets which carry specific risks which could impact the returns from the trust. The main risks are summarised here.

Alternative investments: Types of non-traditional investments such as commodities, private equity, specialist lending and hedge funds. These types of investment can help to diversify portfolios and are usually lowly correlated with traditional investments, such as bonds and equities, but can be more volatile in certain market conditions.

Collective investment schemes: This trust may be directly invested in, or have exposure to units in other collective investment schemes, such as commodity funds, hedge funds and property funds, which could expose the trust to increased levels of risk.

Counterparty credit: Where securities or financial derivative instruments require a specific entity, usually a bank, to honour its obligations.

Currency: Where investments are denominated in currencies other than sterling, changes in exchange rates may cause their sterling value to rise or fall.

Derivative: A financial contract whose value is related to the value of an underlying asset or index. Whilst their use is not necessarily expected to increase risk within the trust, they can be highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains, resulting in larger fluctuations in the value of the investment trust.

Equities: As an asset class, equities can experience high levels of fluctuation in prices.

Fixed interest securities: This type of asset, which includes government and corporate bonds, is particularly affected by movements in interest rates. If interest rates rise, their price may fall, and vice versa.

Currency forward contracts: Typically used to help reduce the impact of currency movements, but could also expose the trust to volatile returns from time to time.

Gearing / leverage: Investments that use gearing / leverage will experience higher price fluctuations.

Geographic concentration: Investment trusts that have a strong focus on a particular country or region, can carry a higher risk than those with a more diversified portfolio.

Inflation: Higher inflation can negatively impact investment markets, in particular, fixed interest securities such as government bonds and corporate bonds.

Interest rate: Unexpected movements in interest rates will affect all types of assets, in particular, fixed interest securities such as government bonds and corporate bonds. If interest rates go up, the value of the bond may fall, and vice versa.

Issuer credit: Where the issuer of a security is unable to make income payments or repay its debt.

Acorn Income Fund

Fund Information as at 30 April 2020

Legal/tax: Arising from a change in legal/tax regulations or the application of them.

Liquidity: During difficult market conditions, securities may become more difficult to sell and buy at a desired price.

Operational: Processes, systems and controls can fail. This is more likely to happen with more complex products or investments in overseas markets, such as emerging market countries, which may not have the same level of safekeeping, infrastructure or controls as more developed markets.

Sub-investment Grade Bonds: These have lower credit ratings than investment grade bonds and therefore carry a higher degree of issuer default risk.

Smaller companies: Investment in smaller companies is typically higher risk than investment in larger companies.

Structured investments: These investments have an embedded derivative and may, if certain criteria are met, experience a swift change in value.

Unregulated collective investment schemes: These investments, which include hedge funds, carry additional risks as they may not be subject to the same level of regulation as authorised or regulated schemes or under the regulation of a competent regulatory authority.

Zero dividend preference shares: Serious falls in market levels can alter their structure and adversely impact on returns.
